Duty of care: A common law concept that refers to the responsibilities of organisations to provide people with an adequate level of protection against harm and all reasonable foreseeable risk of injury. In the context of this policy, duty of care refers to the responsibility of education and care services to provide children, staff, students, volunteers, contractors and anyone visiting the service with an adequate level of care and protection against reasonable foreseeable harm and injury.

BACKGROUND AND IMPLEMENTATION

Everyone involved in an early childhood education and care service has a role to play in ensuring the service's operations are safe and without risk to the health and safety of all parties. In Victoria, health and safety in the workplace is governed by a system of laws, regulations and compliance codes that set out the responsibilities of employers and employees to ensure safety is maintained at work. Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) Act 2004

The Occupational Health and Safety Act 2004 (OHS Act) sets out the key principles, duties and rights in relation to workplace health and safety. The Occupational Health and Safety Regulations 2007 specifies the ways duties imposed by the OHS Act must be undertaken and prescribe procedural/administrative matters to support the OHS Act, such as requiring licenses for specific activities, or the need to keep records or notify authorities on certain matters.

The legal duties of an employer under the OHS Act are:

- to provide and maintain a workplace that is safe and without risk to the health of employees. This responsibility extends to contractors for routine tasks over which the employer has management. For contractors completing non-routine tasks, the employer must ensure that the service's daily operations and layout do not pose unreasonable risks
- to ensure other individuals, such as families and visitors, are not exposed to health and safety risks arising from the organisation's activities
- to consult with employees about OHS matters that will, or will likely, affect employees directly, including identifying hazards and assessing risks, and making decisions about risk control measures. The OHS Act places the responsibility on employees for:
 - taking care of their own safety and the safety of others who may be affected by their actions ^[SEP]
 - co-operating with reasonable OHS actions taken by the employer, including following guidelines, attending OHS-related training, reporting incidents, co-operating with OHS investigations, encouraging good OHS practice with fellow employees and others at the service, and assisting the employer with conducting OHS inspections during operating hours ^[SEP]
 - not interfering with safety equipment provided at the service, such as fire extinguishers. ^[SEP]

Risk Minimisation Strategies and Assessments

The centre follows clear risk minimisation strategies, supported by clear policies and procedures for specific areas of child safety that help ensure that the environment and practices at the centre are child safe. Centre policies and procedures relate to all matters specified in Regulation 168(2). Risks in the child's physical environment are minimised by the completion of a number of comprehensive Risk Assessments and Risk Minimisation Plans that ensure the safety of buildings, grounds, equipment, materials and furniture used at the service, and the safe storage and use of dangerous substances such as cleaning products and chemicals. ^[SEP]

The centre recognises that children benefit from growing up in a natural environment that provides challenges and interests and assists children in their physical and sensory development. Children are supervised at all times and appropriate risk assessments are conducted in relation to all aspects of the operation of the centre.

Premises, Equipment & Playground Safety

The City of Port Phillip oversee all work carried out at the centre. The building is regularly maintained to ensure a safe, clean and aesthetically pleasing environment. All playground and playroom equipment and furniture is selected to be developmentally appropriate. Equipment and furniture is subject to a risk assessment with Australian Safety Standards adhered to where required.

Staff assess equipment and the indoor and outdoor environment daily for safety. Any identified damaged or unsafe equipment or furniture is immediately removed and reported to the Nominated Supervisor for repair or replacement. A pest control company to conduct regular safety checks for the presence of spiders and vermin in and around the centre. Special attention is paid to cubby houses and sheds which are checked regularly for signs of activity.
